

DEATH CALLS THE GREAT HUMORIST

"MARK TWAIN" PASSES AWAY AT HIS HOME LATE YESTERDAY.

HIS LONG, USEFUL LIFE

Samuel L. Clemens Was Foremost Man of Letters in America—World Regrets His Death.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Redding, Conn., April 22.—"Mark Twain," beloved of the world over because he made it laugh, is dead. He passed away without pain at 6:22 last evening in his country home, "Stormfield," back in the wild Camarack hills.

For five hours he had been unconscious and the end was almost unnoticeable. It was simply a cessation of pulse and respiration. At his bedside were his only living child, Clara, who is the wife of Osgood Garrison, which, the Russian pianist; Albert Orton, was secretary, under appointment by President Lincoln. Samuel became the clerk of his brother, but soon drifted into newspaper work. For a short time he was city editor of the Virginia City Enterprise, in which paper his first sketches appeared. Afterward he went to San Francisco, where he worked as a reporter on the Morning Call. After a short time he tried placing himself up a great deal of valuable experience, but little gold. Clemens returned to newspaper work and, in the spring of 1865, became interested with Bret Harte in the conduct of the Alta Californian. It was about that time that he wrote his first humorous sketches and became locally known as a humorist.

In 1866 Clemens sailed for Honolulu and wrote descriptions of the life and conditions there for the Sacramento Union. On his return he traveled through the west, giving humorous lectures on his experiences in Nevada and Honolulu. In March, 1867, he published in New York his first book, "The Jumping Frog of Calaveras County and Other Sketches." The success of this book encouraged the editor of the Alta Californian to send Clemens out as a newspaper reporter

Higelow Paine, his secretary and literary executor, who was almost a son to him; Dr. Edward Quinard and Robert Hakey, the heart specialists who had kept him alive by stimulants for nearly twenty-four hours; and his servants headed by old Katie, who for thirty years had been his housekeeper.

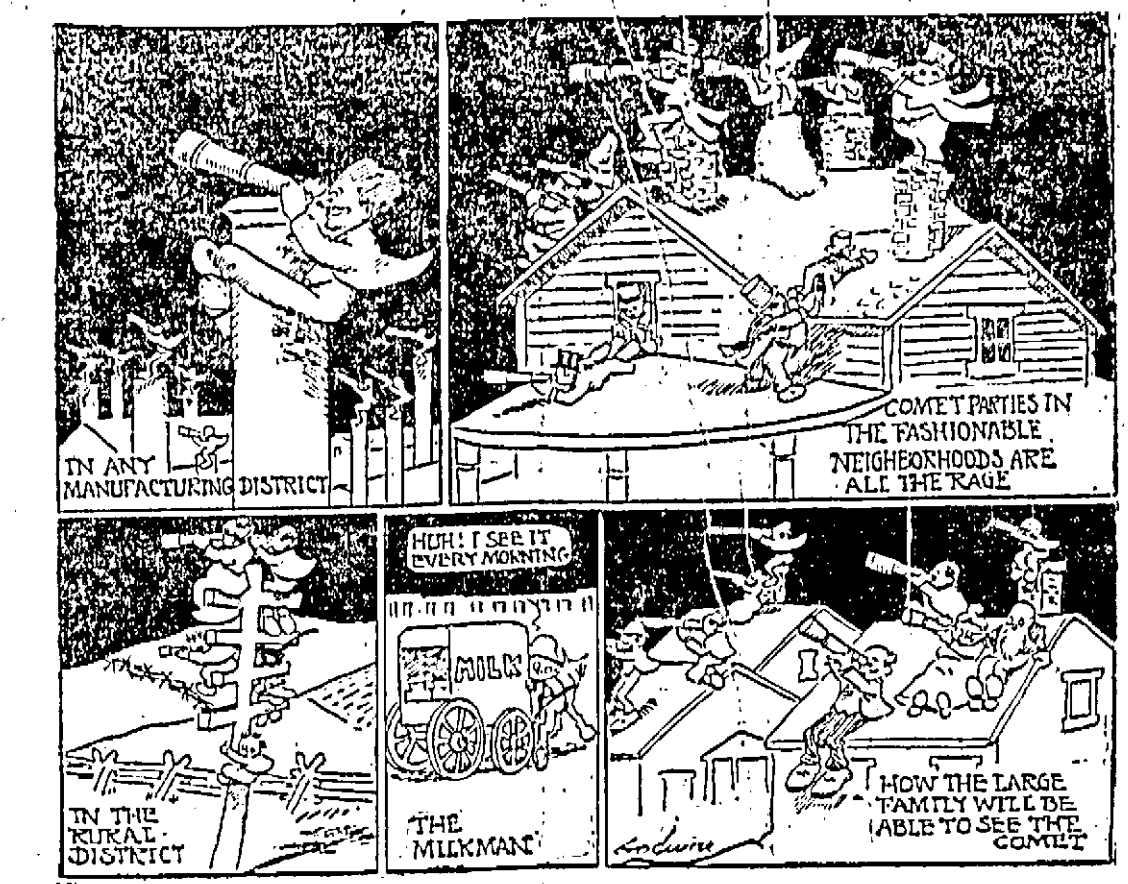

His last words were spoken at one o'clock to his daughter. What they were she only heard, for they were faint and almost inarticulate. Unable then to speak, he grasped a pen and pencil—the instinct to write approaching sensellessness. He traced the words: "Give me my glasses," and with the spectacles adjusted he gazed at the paper, placed his pencil to it as though to put down some far-fetched message, then his strength waned and the writing materials slipped from his grasp.

He snuggled peacefully to the pillow and he layed into the coma which death entailed.

Samuel L. Clemens, better known throughout the world under his literary pseudonym of "Mark Twain," was born in Florida, Mo., November 30, 1835. Soon after his birth his parents moved to Hannibal, Mo., where Samuel and his brothers were brought up and where they received a grammar school education. The town, situated on the banks of the Mississippi river, brought Samuel in close and constant touch with the great river and the varied and fascinating life upon it and developed in him a great love for nature and adventure.

At the age of thirteen Samuel learned typesetting and for three years he followed that occupation, wandering about from place to place, as was the custom then among the printers. St. Louis, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and New York were among the cities he visited in his wanderings. In 1851 his love of home and the river drew him westward again and he became a pilot on the Mississippi, although only sixteen years old at that time. He followed that vocation for ten years, during that time accumulating material which he was eventually to turn to literary account. The pen name which he selected at the beginning of his literary career, a reminder of his pilot days. Many a time, under the glaring sun and under the starry sky, "Mark Twain," called by the man making the soundings, came to Samuel's ear, while he stood at his post in the little pilot house. That call, often repeated in the course of his countless trips, meant that the sounding had shown a depth of twelve feet, a safe depth for the shallow river steamers.

The outbreak of the war in 1861 destroyed the river business and Samuel Clemens found himself practically without occupation. In the spring of that year the young pilot joined a Confederate volunteer squad, but he was not destined to win laurels upon the battlefield. In fact, he never saw active service. As his occupation was gone, he decided to go to Nevada, then a territory, of which his brother,

SUPERIOR TO HAVE BIG FARMERS' MARKET

Business Men Plan for Novel Attraction for the Farmers' Produce.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Superior, Wis., April 22.—The promoters of the farmers' market to be organized for the purpose of constructing a public market and warehouse in Superior are now taking steps to bring that scheme to a successful issue. Over five hundred subscribers to stock have been obtained. None of these has been apportioned over ten shares at $2.50-a-share and most of them have one or two shares. There is close to $4,000 subscribed. It was first thought advisable to incorporate for $10,000 but the plan will probably be changed so as to make the capital stock $5,000, and then the promoters will be in shape to go ahead any time, the state law requiring over half the stock be subscribed before the corporation is formed. It is quite probable that the city will donate a site so that the company will have its capital available for putting up a building and getting started. As this part of the state is settling up rapidly it is believed that after the market is in operation a short time there will be a big demand for shares as only members are to be allowed its privileges.

STRATFORD-ON-AVON WELCOMES A THROG

At the Opening of the Four Weeks of Shakespearean Festival—Many Americans Among Visitors.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, April 22.—Stratford-on-Avon is crowded with visitors from all parts of England and the continent and a considerable number of Americans, who have gathered there to attend the four weeks Shakespearean festival, which opened there today. The dramatic arrangements for the festival are in the hands of R. F. Benson, who has been in charge of these Shakespearean festivals for more than twenty years. The first organized celebration of the kind was held in 1769, when David Garrick was responsible for the initial festival. In 1827 a regular theatre was opened in Stratford, but the present building used for the Shakespearean performances during the festival was not built until 1878. The first performance in that theatre was given on April 23, 1879, Shakespeare's birthday.

The program for this year's festival includes the performance of sixteen plays of Shakespeare by the most distinguished actors and actresses of Great Britain. Tomorrow, in honor of Shakespeare's birthday, a special performance of "The Two Gentlemen of Verona" will be given with Allen Nora Lancerotti as Sylvia. In addition to the Shakespearean plays Sheridan's "School for Scandal," Beaumont and Fletcher's "Knight of the Burning Pestle," and the prize play written by Mrs. Lionel S. Marks of Cambridge, Mass., will be given.

ANOTHER NURSE TO TELL A STORY OF DR. HYDE'S ACTION

Death of Craman Swope is Told in Detail to the Court by Witness Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Kansas City, Mo., April 22.—The trial of Dr. Hyde was continued today with fresh evidence for the prosecution as to the defendant's actions at the time of the illness of Craman Swope, who later died. The chief witness for the state was Miss Anna Houlihan, the young woman who led the nurses' strike in the Swope home-stand against Dr. Hyde.

It was due to Miss Houlihan's significant statement, "People are being murdered in this house," that led to the first suspicion against the doctor and she repeated her story on the stand this morning giving many details of the last illness of Craman Swope, whose death is also laid at Hyde's door.
Miss Houlihan made a most excellent witness for the prosecution and the defense attorneys were unable to get her to contradict any of her statements which were most striking in character.

IS NOT SUPPORTING SENATOR FAIRCHILD

Assemblyman Gray of Oshkosh Makes Contradiction to Statement of Milwaukee Papers.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Oshkosh, April 22.—"E. T. Fairchild is a personal friend of mine, but I will not support him as a candidate for governor."
This was the statement of Assemblyman William M. Gray of this city, when interviewed by a representative of The Northwestern this afternoon. "For more than a year I have been working for legislation that will enable the people of Wisconsin to directly enjoy the benefit of our great natural resources—waterpowers—without doing an injustice to water power owners," said Assemblyman Gray.
In speaking of the platform of Senator Fairchild, Mr. Gray said: "Mr. Fairchild has taken a position favorable to the water power interests and representing their attitude. I am very sorry, but I cannot allow personal friendship to interfere in this water power fight. Therefore I shall oppose Mr. Fairchild to the best of my ability."

Concerning the report which was given credit in several Milwaukee papers, to the effect that he would endorse the platform of Senator Fairchild, Mr. Gray said: "The report in Milwaukee papers that I will support him is untrue and is inspired to create the impression that Mr. Fairchild is not the Plaster-Corcoran-Steele special interest candidate.
"I do not belong to that crowd any more than I belong to the La Follette crowd," continued Mr. Gray. "I suppose I may be considered an outcast politically, but I am not the only one. In my opinion, went on the assemblyman, 'the great majority of Wisconsin republicans are tired of choosing between demagogues and agitators on the one hand, and special interest, money-bug politicians on the other.'
"I am waiting," concluded Assemblyman Gray, "to uphold some clean man, who will stand for good things and is not supported by those who resort to the corrupt use of money, or appeals to class prejudice and hatred, for success."

STATE BOARD IS ON MRS. GILLEY'S TRAIL

Asks Dist. Atty. Fisher to Prosecute Stoughton Woman on Charge of Breaking Quarantine at Evansville. District Attorney J. L. Fisher has received a communication from Dr. C. A. Harper, secretary of the State Board of Health, asking that prosecution be commenced against Mrs. Bert Gilley of Stoughton on the charge of breaking a scarlet fever quarantine at Evansville on March 6 and taking her boy, who is alleged to have been convalescing from that malady at the time, to Stoughton. According to Dr. Harper's information, when scarlet fever developed in the Gilley child on Feb. 22, Dr. Smith, the Evansville health officer, served official notice on the mother and posted up a sign. The quarantine was in force until March 4, when, without permission, Mrs. Gilley and her child went to Stoughton. Whether they traveled to that destination by train or horse and buggy or automobile, does not appear, but the writer declares that they arrived there on the same date and that on the day following Mrs. Gilley notified Dr. Chapman, the Stoughton health officer, concerning her actions and the quarantine sign was placed on her domicile there. In doing all this, the writer maintains, she violated the rules of the State Board of Health which have the effect of state law and he asks that steps be taken to bring about her punishment for so doing. He has taken at once, Assistant District Attorney O. A. Oestreich is drawing up a complaint and Dr. Charles Sutherland, local member of the board, is taking an active interest in the matter. It seems to be the consensus of opinion, in view of the recent health epidemic resulting from disregard of the quarantine laws, that sort of an object lesson would have salutary effects in the southeast quarter of the state just at this time. The punishment for breaking quarantine is a fine ranging from $25 to $100 and a jail sentence additional if the court sees fit to impose it.

FIRST EDITIONS OF MARK TWAIN

Judge Charles L. Filfield Owns Several Rare Copies of Humorist's Early Publications. Municipal Judge Chas. L. Filfield's private library contains a copy of the rare and much prized first edition of Mark Twain's "Gilded Age." In this book Col. Sellers, whose favorite expression—"There's millions in it"—became world-famous, bears the Christian name of the original from which the type was drawn, but it is recorded that the original made it so hot for the author that he promised to substitute the pseudonym "Andberry" in all succeeding editions. And the promise was kept. Judge Filfield also has copies of the first editions of the burlesques "Autobiography and First Romance" (1871) in which the author satirizes his "family tree" as having but one limb and bearing fruit at all seasons, and illustrates the title-page with a picture of the hangman's scaffold, the "Punch, Brothers Punch!" (1878), and seven other works.

WASHINGTON-AMERICANS. JAMES MACLEER.

Early this season Washington was seen at the head of the American league, a place the Nationals reach about once in every five years. This season of leading a topnotch club has been borne by Jim McAleer, the new manager of the Washington team, without any undue feeling of elation. For he is wise to the fact, with every one else in the baseball world, that Washington isn't going to stay with the leaders very long. If there were a few more pitchers of the Walter Johnson type you would find Washington battling some, but there is but one Walter Johnson and he can't do four men's work. Therefore Washington stands a pretty fair chance of losing about three out of every four game.

The national capital is a city unique in the baseball world. It is one of the few towns that will support a losing team, and this is due doubtless to the fact that there are so many out of town visitors in Washington at all times that crowds are drawn just for a peep at a big league game if the visitor happens to live in the business or because citizens of a major league town want to see their own team play. Since the capital city was admitted to the league in 1902 it has held on to seventh or eighth place religiously. It was a sovereign right of the Nationals and there was disappointment when the club finished in sixth place in 1902, fully 50 points ahead of the seventh place Detroit team. But this was the first year, and since then one of the last two places has been held. McAleer has a hard task before him at Washington. His infield doesn't touch the others in the American league, neither does his outfield, while with the exception of Johnson, the pitchers all have something to show to make them look very good, although Charley Street is one of the best catchers in the game.

WRONG NOTIONS ABOUT SCIENCE—LECTURE GIVES FIRST HAND INFORMATION

Many persons have a misty or misconceived notion about Christian Science. Some of the notions are, that it is a faith cure; that it is mental suggestion or mesmerism; that it is just believing that you are well and you will be well, or taking a cheerful view of things; that it is a fact; that it is a Science, but not Christian; that it is Christian, but not Science. Some of these views are correct and all result from second or third hand information regarding the subject. Judge Hanna, an official lecturer of the Christian Science church, will give a first hand statement of what this new Science is, and is doing, in his lecture next Monday evening at the opera house.

Painless Dentistry

I like to work for people who have had work done elsewhere.

Then they are able to compare results in the way of skill, of dexterity, of carefulness, of painless effort on my part, etc.

If they say anything at all, it is sure to be to my credit in the comparison.

Often people say something like this:

"I wish I had come to you long ago. It would have saved me an awful lot of suffering."

I had intended coming here for my last work, but was diverted.

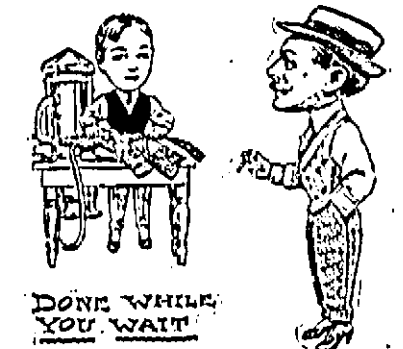

In the future, I shall know where to come for my dentistry.

It would be the same with you.

The "Cute" Jap.

It is the ambition of every up-to-date "Jap" to learn English at the first opportunity. At one or two of the hotels I was rather puzzled and a little flattered by the eager and almost anxious politeness with which Japanese youths offered to come for a walk with me. But I discovered that they only wanted a free lesson in English. The Sunday Strand.

GENERAL SHIFTING OF ARMY OFFICERS

From New York To Philippines Results From Retirement Today Of Maj. Gen. Franklin Bell.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—Not in several years has there been such a general shifting about of the high officers of the army as resulted today from the retirement of Major-General J. Franklin Bell from the office of chief of staff, which is regarded as the most important office in the army. The changes extend from New York and Washington to San Francisco and the Philippines and include a number of department commanders and many officers of lower grade.

General Bell, who has filled out his term as chief of staff will go to the Philippines to assume command of the forces there as soon as he is fully recovered from the injuries he received in an automobile accident here. As chief of staff he is to be succeeded by Major-General Leonard Wood, who is now on his way to Ithaca, N. Y., as a special envoy to convey the congratulations of the United States to the Argentine Republic upon the occasion of the centenary celebration of the birth of the republic.

For the present, Brigadier-General Tucker H. Bliss is to act as chief of staff until the arrival for duty of Major-General W. H. Carter, who has been ordered to Washington to assume the duties of assistant chief of staff. On general Wood's return from South America, General Bliss will go to San Francisco and take command of the Department of California from Major-General Thomas H. Barry who, in August, will become Superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point.

Major-General Frederick D. Grant, who preceded General Wood in command of the Department of the East, returns to that command today. Brigadier-General L. Hodges succeeds General Grant in command at Chicago, while Brigadier-General Walter Howe, who has been acting commander of the Department of the East, goes to assume command of the Department of the Dakota. Brigadier-General Ralph W. Hoyt goes to Fort Russell, Wyoming, to succeed Brigadier-General F. A. Smith, transferred to the command of the Department of Missouri, a position recently vacated by the retirement of Brigadier-General Morton.

Old Cannons Found Near Venice.
A Rome correspondent informs us that some very interesting discoveries have been made in the course of excavation work around the island of Lido at Venice, where a number of ancient pieces of artillery have been found beneath six feet of mud. The cannons are all in a state of excellent preservation, though it is clear from their construction that they must date back to a period almost immediately after the discovery of gunpowder; and it is believed that they will prove of very great artistic and historic value.

Socialist Leaders to Back Up Their Theories by Facts in Milwaukee. At top, Victor E. Berger, congressman-at-large and national leader of the Socialist party. Below, the recently elected mayor of Milwaukee, Emil Seidel.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 22.—The Socialist Democratic administration of Milwaukee during the next two years will be watched with the keenest interest not only by the Socialists of the country but by thousands of people who are waiting to see the theories of Socialism put to a test in a municipality.

Victor E. Berger is the acknowledged leader of his party in Milwaukee. In a detailed statement given out by Mr. Berger the plans of the Social Democratic administration in Milwaukee are outlined. The party stands for municipal ownership of public utilities; radical changes that will bring means of production in the hands of the people, the initiative referendum and recall, efficient sanitary inspection of shops and workhouses, public control of food supply, the elimination of graft, free text books for schools, free medical service in the interest of public health and the rendering of legal aid to the poor who are unable to afford it.

Mightiest Name on Earth.
Lincoln said of Washington: "Washington is the mightiest name on earth; long since mightiest in the cause of civil liberty, still mightiest in moral reformation. On that name a eulogy is expected. It cannot be. To add brightness to the sun or glory to the name of Washington is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. In solemn awe pronounce the name, and in naked, deathless splendor leave it shining on."

BORT, BAILEY & COMPANY

CAREER OF "MARK TWAIN", HUMORIST

Interesting Life of the Man Who Made the World Laugh.

RIVER PILOT IN HIS YOUTH

Did His First Literary Work in Nevada—Bad Events That Clouded His Later Years—A Clean Life Record.

Samuel Langhorne Clemens, American humorist and known to the world as "Mark Twain," was born in the little town of Hannibal, Mo., in November 30, 1835.

His father, John Marshall Clemens, came from an old Virginia family, and with his young wife, Elizabeth Lampton, a descendant of the early settlers of Kentucky, he joined the sturdy band of pioneers who pushed over the Alleghenies in the early part of the last century and settled along the banks of the Mississippi river.

In the uncouth environment of the then little frontier town of Hannibal the famous author spent his boyhood days. Here he fished, hunted and lounged along the river banks with his sturdy companions, living a healthy outdoor existence, which undoubtedly accounted for his long life, in the face of his many afflictions.

He attended the little school, but not being of a very studious disposition, he learned far more from contact with the rough companions whom he immortalized in later years as "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer," and others of their type.

At the age of twelve his meager school education was brought to a sudden close by the death of his father.

His older brother, Orion S. Clemens, was the proprietor of a printing shop in the village, and young Sam Clemens began his journalistic career there as a "printer's devil." In the course of a few years he learned the trade as a compositor, and in 1853 he left his native town and began a wandering existence. He journeyed from place to place, working at his trade in New York and the principal cities of the middle west.

But while he gained a vast amount of experience during his travels, which proved of the greatest value in the preparation of some of his works in later years, this period was rather unprofitable from a financial standpoint, and he was finally compelled to return to his home along the banks of the great river, in rather straitened circumstances.

Becomes River Pilot.
The life of a steamboat pilot had always appealed to his youthful imagination, and now that he had grown to manhood, he resolved to realize his ambition. He was fortunate enough to become a pupil of Horace Bixby, and he was soon guiding the awkward river craft along the tortuous channel of the muddy stream.

The idea of his becoming an author had never entered his mind at that time, but he absorbed enough of the pilot life to enable him to describe the difficulties encountered in guiding a boat along the great river in his "Life on the Mississippi River," which he wrote many years later.

At the outbreak of the Civil war steamboating came to a standstill, and young Clemens enlisted in the Confederate army. A soldier's life, however, was not to his liking, and after a few weeks' service he joined his brother Orion, who had received an appointment as secretary of the Territory of Nevada. He acted as secretary to his brother, but as his duties were almost nothing and his salary even less, he spent most of his time in the military camps. His experiences in this section are depicted in his "Roughing It," and "The Jumping Frog."

First Literary Work.
In 1857 he began his first regular literary work on the staff of the Virginia City Enterprise. He wrote a column daily, dealing with the political situation in the state, that attracted wide attention. These articles he signed with the nom de plume "Mark Twain," which he had heard sung out on the Mississippi steamers to let the pilot know that the sounding showed two fathoms of water.

He resigned his position at Virginia City and went to California, where he worked on the Sacramento Union; but after a brief period, he left his desk and went to Hawaii to write up the sugar interests. His work was very successful, and on his return to California he delivered a number of lectures, which netted him considerable money.

In March of 1857, Twain published his first book, "The Jumping Frog of Calaveras County." The book made quite a stir in that part of the country, but only 4,000 copies were sold. It attracted the attention, however, of the editor of the Alta California, who sent the author out as a newspaper correspondent on a steamboat excursion to southern Europe and the Orient.

His letters were published from time to time, and in 1859 the author revised them and published them in book form under the title of "The Innocents Abroad." This work made "Mark Twain" famous, and compelled his recognition as America's foremost humorist. In the first 16 months, 85,000 volumes were sold, and many more subsequently. This was a record for those days.

Marrilee Miles Langdon, it was on his trip in the Mediterranean that Mark Twain met Olivia Langdon of Elmira, N. Y. They fell in love with each other, and in 1870 were married. Their married life was one of perfect harmony and their children blessed their union.

Mr. Clemens resided in Buffalo for a year after his marriage, and was nominally the editor of the Buffalo Express. In 1871 he joined the literary colony at Hartford, Conn., where he lived for a great many years, and where he did the greater part of the work that has made his name immortal.

In 1872 "Roughing It" appeared, and in the same year "The Gilded Age," written in collaboration with Charles Dudley Warner, was published. "Tom Sawyer" came in 1876, and "Huckleberry Finn" nine years later. Of the stories with an historical setting, "The Prince and the Pauper," "A Connecticut Yankee at the Court of King Arthur," and "Personal Recollections of John of Arc," appeared in 1882, 1880 and 1894 respectively. In 1893 that curious philosopher "Pudd'nhead Wilson," made his bow.

Misfortune Dogs Him.

But while the great humorist was meeting with well-deserved success from a literary standpoint, the imp of misfortune seemed to dog his very footsteps.

In 1884, he conceived the idea of reading the publisher's as well as the author's profits from some of his works. Accordingly he organized a stock company known as C. L. Webster & Co., in which he was the largest stockholder, to publish his works. He had accumulated considerable wealth and was rated as a millionaire.

His financial ability, however, was none of the best, and in 1894 his entire fortune was swept away by the failure of the publishing house. Mr. Clemens was abroad at the time, and although 60 years of age, he started out on a tour of the globe, delivering lectures and writing articles in order to pay the debts of the defunct firm.

He had scarcely begun his great task when fate struck him another hard blow. This was the death of his eldest and most accomplished daughter, Miss Olivia S. Clemens, who died in August, 1898, at the age of 24. Great in spirit, he continued his great task and in two years he had paid off his debts.

It was during this dark period that the veteran humorist was reported destitute and dying in London. A public appeal was sent out through a New York paper and $3,000 was raised for him. But although pressed for funds, he still retained his dignity and refused to accept the money.

Wife Passes Away.
As if in sympathy with her husband's misfortunes, his wife's health began to fail. He moved to Florence, Italy, in the hope that the mild climate would restore her, but it proved of no avail, and on November 6, 1904, she died in that far off land.

About this time the humorist met H. H. Rogers, the Standard Oil magnate, and the men became fast friends. Rogers gave his literary friend the aid of his financial experience, and Clemens was soon in possession of a comfortable income.

Although the future took on a brighter aspect, his evil spirit was only slumbering, and one day, without asking the advice of his shrewd companion, "Twain" was lured into another disastrous investment. He placed $32,500 in the "Pleasure Company of America," a pure food organization, and was elected president. But the company went to the wall in 1907, and with it the $32,500 disappeared.

And now misfortune selected another weapon with which to attack the white-haired author. Hereafter his books had escaped harsh criticism, but in November, 1907, "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn," his boy masterpieces, were withheld from youths by the Brooklyn Public Libraries, an "unit for young minds." Comptroller Joy of Detroit, Mich., declared his work, "A Doubtful Harlequin Detective Story," was "literary junk, unfit for a public library," and a Massachusetts public library refused to give shelf room to his "Eve's Diary," declaring that the book was "shocking."

Worn out by his lectures, after dinner speeches and misfortunes, "Twain" purchased a farm in Redding, Conn., and erected a $40,000 villa, which he called "Stormfield." With his two daughters, Clara and Jean, he moved there in 1908 and settled down to a life of ease.

But a series of fresh misfortunes was in store for him. He had vigorously denounced the rule of the late King Leopold II. in the Congo Free State, and just when the reform movement was at its height, his ill health compelled him to abandon his work.

The "Children's Theater," which was founded by "Mark Twain" in New York, and which represented one of his life-long ambitions, was forced to close through lack of funds.

Then the humorist and his daughter Clara became involved in a lawsuit over a farm which he had presented to his former secretary, Mrs. Ralph Ashcroft, on her wedding day, and which he later attached on the advice of his daughter.

The facts regarding this disagreeable affair were aired in the press, much to the humiliation of the veteran humorist.

In the early part of 1909 his staunch friend and adviser, H. H. Rogers, died suddenly at his New York home. This great financier and the white-haired humorist had been inseparable companions for a number of years. They had made trips to Bermuda together, and when Rogers opened his railroad in Virginia, "Twain" was one of the guests of honor. The author was greatly affected by the financier's sudden death.

Daughter Dies Suddenly.
In the latter part of 1909, "Twain" made another trip to Bermuda, and on his return his feeble appearance attracted a great deal of attention. Then the last cruel blow came the day before Christmas, when his youngest daughter, Jean, was found dead in the bath tub at his Redding home. The young woman had been a victim of epilepsy, and had been seized with one while in the bath tub, which resulted in her death.

During his last years, all of the humorist's writings were under the control of Harper and Brothers. His autobiography, which appeared in a serial form in a magazine, and several attacks on Christian Science were his latest important works.

He also wrote a book questioning the authenticity of Shakespeare's works, which caused considerable comment.

As an after dinner speaker he was always in demand, and in his unique costume of white flannels, he made a striking appearance.

He was always ready with a joke, and his wonderful personality made him an attraction on every occasion.

The quaint philosophy of the character he created in his works would never cause anyone to suspect the trials and tribulations he had undergone. He always faced the world with a smile, and may safely be said to have created more smiles than any other American.

TREASURY OFFICIAL STARTLES CONGRESSMEN

Charles D. Norton Declares There is No Law to Punish Federal Thieves.

Washington, April 22.—That there is at present no law on the statute books by which a subordinate in any of the various sub-treasuries of the United States can be punished for making away with public funds was the astounding declaration made before the house committee on expenditures of the treasury department by Charles D. Norton, assistant secretary of the treasury.

A man might loot the treasury of as much as he likes, or could get away with, and no law exists by which he could be punished, declared Mr. Norton.

Mr. Norton also pointed out to the committee defects in the banking system covering treasurers and assistant treasurers of the United States and their various subordinates. The system was obsolete and inadequate.

Subordinates in the treasury department, handling millions in money daily, were required to furnish no bond, excepting in some cases where a treasurer or required bonds regardless of the law in the case.

This and much other similar information was elicited from Mr. Norton during a hearing on the question of whether the treasury department should undertake an investigation of the $51,000 shortage in the sub-treasury at St. Louis and other places and incidentally inquire into the accounting system of the United States treasury.

WOLTER'S DEFENSE IS ALIBI.

Youth Accused of Girl Murder Takes Witness Stand.

New York, April 22.—Albert W. Wolter took the witness stand today. If he escapes the death chamber it must be on his unsupported word, for as outlined by his attorney, the defense will be that of an alibi, and, besides himself, Wolter is unable to produce a single witness who will be able to testify that he was anywhere else than in the room in which Ruth Wheeler met her death that Thursday morning.

Telephone Wires Are Cut and Tobacco Planters in Panic.

Danville, Ky., April 22.—Farmers of the district between Hedgeville and Hubbe, in Boyle and Lincoln counties, are in a panic following the discovery that five miles of the telephone line between the two towns had been destroyed by night riders.

All the farmers in that section are raising tobacco and the citizens fear that wholesale raids on plant beds are being prepared, the cutting of the telephone wires being a preliminary to ward off possible summoning of aid by victims.

BISHOP GAINES IS ARRESTED.

Church Head Is Accused of Diverting $160 of Fund.

Camden, N. J., April 22.—Bishop Wesley J. Gaines, a negro of Atlanta, Ga., who is holding the annual New Jersey conference of the A. M. E. church in this city, was arrested on a charge of embezzlement. It is alleged he diverted to his own use $160 that should have been applied to the superannuated ministers' fund.

He declares the charge is the work of enemies.

MADE AN ATTACK ON RATE BILL

SENATOR CUMMINS ISSUES WARNING TO LEADERS OF HIS PARTY.

THREATEN WRATH OF PEOPLE

Iowan Strongly Protests Against Crippling Sherman Anti-Trust Law—Aldrich Replying Characterizes Objections to Measure as "Nonsense."

Washington, April 22.—Declaring that the people of the west did not care about traffic agreements, except as those agreements might result in an increase of their freight rates, Senator Cummins of Iowa made an attack on the administration rate bill in the senate.

They do care, he said, that the protection afforded by the Sherman anti-trust law shall be retained for their benefit. He predicted the Republican party would be overwhelmingly defeated if any law was passed by congress which permitted traffic agreements to go into effect without the approval of the government.

Mr. Cummins predicted serious trouble for the Republican party in the forthcoming elections. He said the party was under suspicion and the people were watching closely its progress in congress and in the executive branch of the government. The Democratic congressional victories recently in New York and Massachusetts evidenced the antagonistic feeling toward the party, he declared.

"Nonsense," says Aldrich.

Senator Aldrich, in one of the few replies he has made to the insurgent attack upon the railroad bill in the senate, characterized Mr. Cummins' objections to the bill as "nonsense." The Iowan had said the railroads could combine and fix rates as they pleased and would be completely out from under the anti-trust law. Mr. Aldrich declared the railroads would have no right of combination under the proposed bill which they do not now have.

"The railroads west of Chicago could come to almost a perfect understanding about rates under this bill," said Mr. Cummins. "The Rock Island, the Burlington, the Milwaukee, the Northwestern, and the other roads could meet in conference, come to an agreement upon rates, provide a penalty of $1,000 a day for violation, and then each file their new rates with the Interstate commerce commission. There would be no relief for the public."

Cummins Pictures Wrath.

"What substitute do you offer for the penalties and prohibition of the anti-trust law?" asked Mr. Cummins. "If the congress of the United States shall adopt any law which will permit agreed rates to go into effect before they are approved by some government authority, the man who is responsible for it, the party that proposes it, will be overwhelmed, and ought to be overwhelmed, by the righteous indignation of the millions of defenseless men and women throughout the United States."

"PINCHOT" HAS NAME OF TREE.

Former Forester Is Honored by San Francisco Sierra Club.

Washington, April 22.—Secretary Ballinger granted permission to the Sierra club in San Francisco to give the name of Gifford Pinchot to a plant tree in the Muir Woods National Park in California.

Many applications have been made to the department to name trees after living men. All have been refused except in this instance and one other, when a tree in the Yosemite Valley was named Theodore Roosevelt.

Fowler Introduces Resolution in House Which Causes Much Excitement.

Washington, April 22.—Representative Fowler of New Jersey introduced a resolution in the house designed to take away from the speaker the power to name all committees. For a time everybody thought the recent insurrection against "Cautionism" was to be renewed, and the excitement continued until Mr. Fowler announced that he did not intend to press the resolution until May 2. It was sent to the new committee on rules.

San Francisco, Calif., April 22.—The Chinese quarter of this city is gorgeously decorated in the brightest oriental colors in honor of Prince Tsoi Poy Lak, uncle to the emperor of China, brother to the prince regent and war minister of the Chinese empire, who is due to arrive here today on the liner Tenyo Maru. Never before have the members of the Chinese colony been in such a fever of excitement and never has Chinatown been so elaborately and magnificently decorated. Electric lights have been strung to the tops of the pagodas and Chinese flags are waving from the top masts. These Chinese lanterns have been placed on both sides of the streets of Chinatown and at both ends Grant avenue, which runs through the quarter, is spanned by magnificent triumphal arches. All the larger stores of the quarter are brilliantly decorated and the streets present a perfect riot of gold and colors.
Prince Tsoi Poy Lak is coming to America with a large staff of his officers to study the American army methods. During his sojourn in the United States he will be the guest of the United States army and will be shown military courtesy. The Prince will remain in San Francisco until next Monday, when he will start on his overland journey. The Chinese Six Companies have made the most elaborate preparations for the reception and entertainment of the distinguished visitor. The tug Golden Gate is ready to take the reception party out to meet the incoming liner. The party will include Chang Yin Tang, the Chinese minister to Washington, many distinguished army and navy officers, state and city officials and the reception committee of the Six Companies.

The Prince and his escort will land at the transport dock and will be escorted through the city by federal troops, Chinese boys in uniform and the Columbia Park boys' band. The procession will march through Chinatown, which will turn out to the last man, woman and child. Tomorrow evening the Prince will be the guest of honor at a banquet to be given by the Six Companies, which will also be attended by Gen. Barry, U. S. A., Admirals Osterhaus, Phelps and Milton and other officers and officials.

30 YEARS OF SUCCESS

The Smith Drug Co. Offer a Remedy for Catarrh. The Medicine Costs Nothing if It Fails

When a medicine effects a successful treatment in a very large majority of cases, and when we offer that medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cost the user nothing if it does not completely relieve catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take all the risk. These are facts which we want the people to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Muen-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician with whom catarrh was a specialty, and who has a record of thirty years of enviable success to his credit.

We receive more good reports about Rexall Muen-Tone than we do of all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew what a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Muen-Tone is, it would be the only catarrh remedy we would have any demand for.

Rexall Muen-Tone is quickly absorbed and by its therapeutic effects tends to disintegrate and cleanse the entire mucous membrane tract, to destroy and remove the parasites which injure the membranous tissues, to soothe the irritation and heal the soreness, stop the mucus discharge, build up strong, healthy tissue and relieve the blood and system of diseased matter. Its influence is toward stimulating the mucous cells, adding digestion and improving nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time it brings about a noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and feeling of buoyancy.

We urge you to try Rexall Muen-Tone, beginning a treatment today. At any time you are not satisfied, simply come and tell us, and we will quickly return your money without question or quibble. We have Rexall Muen-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Muen-Tone in Janesville only at our store—The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

A FEW weeks ago I suggested several tests, whereby a girl might tell what kind of a husband the man who was asking her to sit across the breakfast table from him the rest of her days, would make.

And prime among them was, is he good to his mother? Is he thoughtful of her comfort? Does he always treat her with respect and tenderness? Does he remember to do for her the little things that mean so much in a woman's life?

The man who fits in with the right answer to all these questions seems to me the best kind of man to marry, for almost always "a good husband is a good son grown up."

It has been suggested by one of my correspondents that I add to this, that to be a good husband a man does not need to come to be a good son.

"There is many a woman," he goes on to say, "who will feel and show party jealousy if a man evidences a natural fondness for the one woman who has been all in all to him up to the time he chooses his wife."

I agree with my correspondent as to the existence of such a type of woman.

And also as to her despatchment. Any woman who does not have sympathy enough to realize what it must mean to the mother to yield the position of first that she has always held in her son's heart, and who does not have kindness enough to make kindness in the only way they can come to some people—by suffering.

I think the relationship between husband and wife is, or should be, more sacred than any other upon earth.

A man's wife isn't his true wife unless she means more to him than his mother or his children—and it should be the same with her.

But the very fact that she has so unquestionable a right to the first place ought to make a wife most forbearing to the woman who has hitherto held it.

She ought to realize that she, too, may have a son some day, and may have the same experience to pass through. And for the sake of the kindness and forbearance she hopes to receive, she ought to try to give good measure of kindness and forbearance—if forbearance is necessary—and to try to make the mother who feels that she has lost a son find, instead, that she has gained a daughter.

I don't know as I ever heard of a case where the husband was jealous of his wife's affection for her mother.

But if there be such cases—well, with the offender please substitute "husband" for "wife" and "son" for "daughter" and "his" for "her" and take the above suggestions, thus altered, for themselves?

LITTLE HELPS.

By MARY HENSHALL.

The agent who comes to your door—how do you treat her—or him? Did you ever stop long enough in your sheltered nook to consider how hard he has chosen in which to make a living?

World, comes to your door you either shut the door in his face or you dismiss him with a curt "No." He isn't hurt. Life is a joke to him anyway. If you do not buy, at least you are furnishing him with a fund of good stories with which to regale the other fellows, or you are hooked to figure in an article on "How I Worked My Way Through College," when he grows famous.

It is when the third woman or the old man, who has failed in all other lines and has been driven to this as a last resort, comes, that you are really making of cruelty to one of the helpless children of poverty. You complain, and justly, that some of these traveling merchants are insufferably impudent, that they are persistent and obnoxious. This may be so. So are some of your social intimates, but do you ignore and affront them for the same reason?

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

Sorrow's Crown of Sorrow.

"I am an old woman, poor in everything that makes a woman rich. My eyes no longer turn to the future, I live only in my youth. There is nothing for me but to wait. My dreary winter is nearly over."

These are the first words that for many a year have come to the world from the Empress Eugenie, now a faded woman of eighty-four years and one of the most pathetic figures of history now living.

What a history was hers! By sheer charm she raised herself to a throne. Her fascinations won Napoleon III. and forever linked her destiny to his and with the rise and fall of an empire.

When Napoleon landed at Boulogne with his tame eagle and proclaimed his rights his countrymen were inclined to laugh at him, but the fevered dream of a republic was over, and Napoleon took up the reins of government.

He made good. And the world knows now that much of the success was owing to Eugenie. In beauty and grace she was the first woman of Europe. Bismarck once said, "She was always one of the most charming of women."

But—As this gracious woman was responsible for much of the brilliant reign of the last Napoleon, she was also the cause of many of its failures.

Eugenie more than any other was the author of the ill-fated attempt by Maximilian to plant an empire on the North American continent in Mexico.

She was the moving spirit in the fatal war with Germany. While his better judgment told Napoleon that France was no match for the Prussians, Eugenie urged him on.

And what woes were brought upon France, culminating in the siege of Sedan! Von Moltke's soldiers crushed her allies under their iron heels, and Eugenie fled to England with her husband and child.

There was sorrow when Napoleon died in exile, but fate reserved the worst blow for Eugenie in 1870—the death of her son. The bright boy was all that was left to her.

And now this pitiful old woman sits in the ashes of her degradation, where for forty years she had mourned her past.

Her only crown is "sorrow's crown of sorrows—remembering better things."

Ancient Water Pipes. Water pipes of terra cotta were used in Crete 40 centuries ago. Those supplying drinking water consisted of a series of subterranean tubes, socketed into each other with collars and "stop ridges," so constructed as to give the water a shooting motion, thus preventing accumulation of sediment.

DAUGHTERS AGAIN IN STRIFE.

How Down-Delegato Who Tries to Speak on "Personal Privilege."

Washington, April 22.—National strife broke out at the session of the Daughters of the American Revolution. When amendments to the society's constitution relating to the discipline of officers and members, and the question of "states rights of the state auxiliaries," were presented the delegates, aligned in their respective "party" camps, found themselves entangled in a parliamentary entanglement. Both amendments were lost.

Mrs. J. Morgan Smith, vice-president general of Alabama, was in the chair and after a motion, defeating one of the amendments had been passed, Mrs. Mary Debra of Kentucky claimed the floor on a question of personal recognition, while, in violation of the usual parliamentary procedure, another member had been permitted to speak twice on the question at issue.

"Because I have different opinions," she began, but her voice was drowned by cries of "out of order," and she was not allowed to continue.

O'BRIEN LOSES TO KAUFMANN.

California Is Too Strong for Philadelphia Pugilist.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 22.—"I'll stake my life that this fight is on the square," shouted Philadelphia Jack O'Brien from a perch over the shoulder of Al Kaufmann in the second round of their six-round mill in Duquesne garden last night.

The crowd of several thousand persons had begun to hiss the fighters when O'Brien made his remarkable assertion and as if to help Jack out in his assertion Kaufmann sent him almost through the ropes with a swing as they broke away. There was left little doubt from that time forth that the mill was on the square. In the fifth and in the last round the heavier Kaufmann had the Philadelphia fighter almost out. In the second round and in the fourth O'Brien had all the best of Kaufmann though his blows seemed to lack steam.

COCKRAN TO DEFEND NEGRO.

Former Congressman Appointed Lawyer for Accused Slayer.

New York, April 22.—A friendly and penniless negro, Victor Nelson, charged with murder, will have in his trial the legal services of W. Bourke Cockran. In line with his policy of appointing leading members of the bar to defend poor prisoners, Justice Malone in general sessions appointed the former congressman and orator to look after the interests of Nelson, who is charged with having killed Charles Humphrey in a brawl.

DIVIDEND SHOW BIG GAINS.

All Corporations Except Electric Railways Have Decided Increase.

New York, April 22.—The May interest and dividend disbursements will be above $110,000,000. This compares with $98,000,000 in 1909. Of this large increase of $22,000,000 over last year, $18,000,000 was in dividends and $4,000,000 in interest payments.

With the single exception of Electric Railways every class of corporations showed an increase, with very decided gains in some cases.

AUTO TURNS TURTLE AND KILLS.

"Joy" Party of Five Are Pitched Over Embankment.

Vincennes, Ind., April 22.—While joy riding near Vincennes five occupants of an automobile were pitched over an embankment and plumed under the "turned turtle" machine. Solomon Davis, sixty years old, minor of McKelvey, was killed and two men and two women were severely injured.

Bare Sunday Ball in Ohio.

Columbus, O., April 22.—Governor Harmon vetoed the Anderson Sunday baseball bill, on the ground that it is unconstitutional. The bill provided that villages and cities shall have the right to vote on the question of baseball on Sunday.

An Observation.

It looks really counted for anything in this world, how empty our colleges would be!—Detroit Free Press.

Woman's Chief Weapon. Woman, having no other means at her disposal for vanquishing and attacking men to her chariot-wheels, has for many long centuries had to rely entirely on coquetry. It is not astonishing, therefore, that this weapon is deeply ingrained in the feminine soul—has become, in fact, an instinct at once conscious and involuntary—and that it now constitutes one of woman's most fundamental characteristics.—The Grand Magazine.

The Calm of Gallies. The calm of Gallies on a perfect morning of spring is like no other calm I have ever known. It is gentler, sweeter than the wonderful calm of the desert. There you seem to be coming into the very presence of God the Father. As you draw near to Gallies, it is as if, with the handful of humble fishermen, you drew near to God the Son. Gallies takes your hand as a friend, and draws you to it; it seems to breathe upon you and give you peace.—Century.

COST OF PACKING WEED WILL BE HIGH

Tobacco Packers Say 1909 Crop Will Need Especial Attention and Care in Handling.

To clean up and prepare the 1909 crop for the cases has required more than ordinary care and attention this year according to the Edgerton Reporter. There was no much damaged and immature leaf contained in most crops as they came from the farmers that had to be removed before the tobacco could be safely packed that the warehouse charges are going to be considerably advanced over those of the ordinary season. Some packers estimate that an average of 30 percent must be thrown out when it is packed over the assembling table to be sold to the smokers or scrap manufacturers for what it will bring.

To clean up the rubbish not only adds materially to the cost of the packing. Were it not for the deductions which the dealers secure from the early contract prices the 1909 crop would have proven one of the most expensive packings put up in this state in some years, excepting possibly the '08. The figures which soon to be made at the close of the season as to the cost of packings are pretty sure to be startling ones.

There is little or no change to note in the tobacco market from week to week. A moderate amount of buying of last season's crop goes steadily on which is all the time reducing the unsold remnants until there are probably less tobacco in country hands now than a year ago this date. Prices however, are mostly around the cent mark with an occasional rise for some of the better crops. A few lots of assorted goods were delivered

Tuesday by Mrs. J. H. Holton at the market for cured leaf continued along the same channels as for months past, trading mostly of the small order variety. We learn of the sale of an acre of '07 to an eastern jobber.

Warehouse work is progressing as rapidly as the limited help situation will warrant, but is destined to be prolonged beyond the usual time.

A week of cold rains and frequent frost has not given the plant beds much of a show for advancement, but where protected little damage has been done.

The shipments out of storage reach

828 cases and 6 cars of bundles to all points from this market for the week past. Since last report 10 cars have been received from outside points.

evening with his oldest son, Roy, and deport told their schoolmates they were going to Milwaukee to get work.

Both of them were about twelve years of age. Nothing was thought at their homes of their absence until Sunday evening at about 10 o'clock. Mrs.

Zimmer then became alarmed and began to make inquiries of his boy friends. Nothing was heard of them until yesterday morning when Mr.

Zimmer got a letter from his son, in which he stated that they had but a quarter left and were anxious to get home if the parents would forward the fare. They had been staying back of a billiard hall near the Northwestern depot since they arrived there Sunday evening. Mr. Zimmer left at once for Milwaukee and brought the trunks back with him. The boys

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, April 22, 1870.—A little three-year-old boy, son of a Mr. Lynch, living near the Second Ward school house, while playing about a cistern with but little water in it, which was covered with boards, fell into it, yesterday afternoon, and received such a concussion that he lay insensible for several hours.

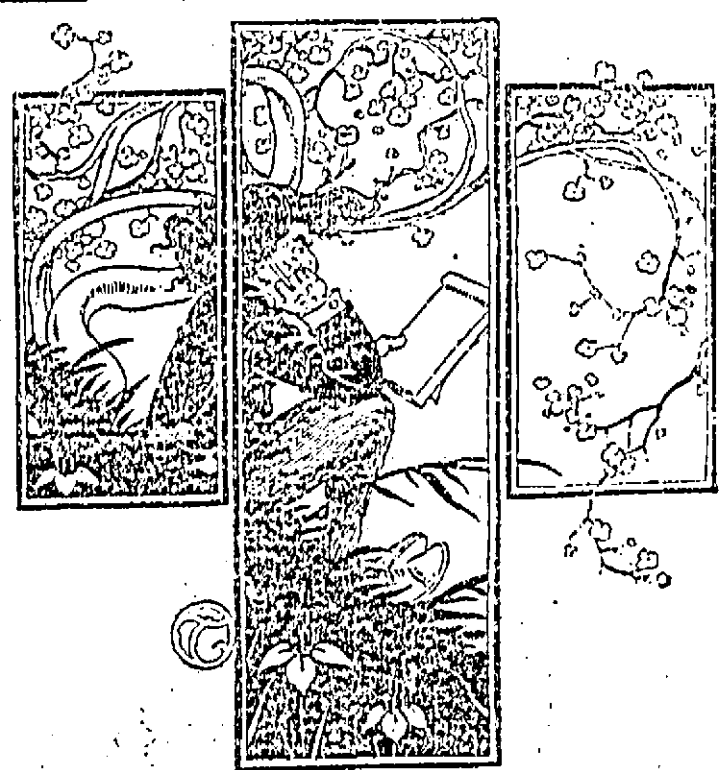

The grain binder which Mr. Payne is now completed and it looks like a complete success. The machine is light, will bind tangled grain as well as straight, and can be attached to any reaper. It is the purpose of Mr. Payne to attach it to some reaper and test it practically in the field during the approaching harvest. We hope the inventor's anticipations of success may be realized.

Yesterday afternoon Patten's Grove in the Third Ward was discovered to be on fire, and despite some lively work that was done, a number of acres of ground were burnt over and some fence destroyed. It is not known how the fire was communicated.
